The Saratoga TU section of the Times Union had the following item which may be of interest to list members who do not receive this section in their newspapers.

"Jean Nudd, an archivist with the National Archives and Record Administration in Pittsfield, Mass., will lead the program "Beginning Genealogy Research at the National Archives" at 7 p.m. Monday, June 7, at the Clifton Park-Halfmoon Public Library, 47 Clifton County Road.

Program participants will find out what treasures the local NARA office holds and how to research family history using the records.

Registration is required either in person or by calling 371-8622."

Subject: Re: [TIGS] May Meeting 5/20/04

Members of TIGS did meet on 5/20/04 at Mahrs Tavern in South Troy and what a great meeting it was. Attending were Lizette Strait, Cathy and Bill McGrath, Frank Ryan, Jeanne Keefe, Mike McAlonie and Wendy ?, Marialice Mangan, Lynn Grice, Connie LaPosta, Larry Malone, Kay Brearton, Ed Connolly, Eileen Harvey, Carolyn Helin, Kristin Ayotte, Mary Ann McConnell and Donna Vaughn.

Being the largest group to meet to date there were lots of new faces so we did start out with everyone introducing themselves and telling the group the surnames they are researching. The notes from the last meeting were read briefly. There was some conversation about restructuring the evenings events (meal, meeting, informal conversation) so that the meeting is comfortable and convenient for all attending. No definite plans were made but it will need to be addressed. We then proceeded to New Business.

1. Kristin Ayotte suggested that if the group were going to continue to grow there was a need for some further organization with the suggestion of a Chair and Co-Chairperson to provide an agenda, facilitate the meeting and ascertain that minutes are taken. This suggestion was met with enthusiasm amongst the members attending. Hopefully it will produce more structure, keep the group on topic for the business part of the meeting so that we can cover it more quickly. At the suggestion of Ed Connolly we have agreed on a revolving Chair with each team of 2 chairing two consecutive meetings. Donna Vaughn and Lizette Strait will Co-Chair the meetings in June and July. Jeanne Keefe and Ed Connolly will Co-Chair the August and September meetings.
2. Further discussion was held on Rules of the Chair, Roberts Rules of Order, parliamentary procedure, etc. and I am confident that as the group grows and organizes we will need to implement even more structure.
3. With that in mind Lynn Grice and Marialice Mangan brought up the subject of the minutes of the meeting and it was unanimously decided that the minutes of the meeting should be sent to the attendees prior to being posted to the general list. The attendees should have priority to review, edit, correct and/or add to the minutes prior to the posting. Speaking for myself only, this is my error and I am happy to correct and proceed properly. I will send to the attendees, they will have 7 days to review, etc. and then the edited notes will be posted. Eventually the minutes will be sent to Jeanne Keefe who will in turn post to the website.
4. Lizette Strait suggested arranging for speakers at the meetings. The group agreed that we would each contribute to the cost of a meal for the speaker. Several names were suggested to invite to speak for different purposes all related to our goal as a Genealogy Society. Ed Connolly suggested that we have a well developed agenda prior to inviting speakers. Several members agreed with Ed and felt that a speaker would need confidence in the group they are speaking to and at this point the group still needs more structure and credibility. Their comments were accepted and agreed with by the majority of the attendees. Lizettes' suggestion was tabled for a few months to see where we are as a group at that time.
5. The transcription of the "Burials in Mt. Ida Cemetery" was read as part of last months meeting and revisited under New Business. Lynn Grice reported that at this time the project would be too cumbersome to be attempted due to various technological issues. The project is not viable at this time. Jeanne Keefe did suggest that we piecemeal it on the website. Anyone gathering information from the records for their own research should send their results to Jeanne for posting on the website. Marialice Mangan, on behalf of the group, has asked that we recognize the time, effort and energy that Lynn put into the investigation. Lynn went the extra mile of doing a test of the procedure to be certain what results would be obtained so that her report to TIGS would be 100% accurate. We as a group would like to thank Lynn for this effort on her part and look forward to her leadership on future potential projects that will benefit those interested in Troy genealogy research.

6. Lynn Grice and Bill McGrath are already moving forward on investigating another project, previously mentioned on the list by Rich Shea, the transcription of the Burden Iron Works Employee Rosters and Employee records. Contact has been made and they will be meeting with Jim Corsaro, the Librarian at the Renss. County Historical Society. Lynn and Bill will meet with him to get a sense of his expectations from the project. There are over 100 boxes, not sorted.

Bill believes there is a finding aide and he will attempt to get a copy of that. Lynn and Bill will update the group at the next meeting.

7. Jeanne Keefe will investigate the records from St. Peters Church in Troy, this being another hot topic on the list. She will write to the Librarian of the Diocese and ask for the Diocese Policy on Church Records. Lynn Grice is under the impression that the Pastor has the right to set policy. We hope to get clarification as we recognize these records as vital to our goal as a group to have them available for genealogical research.

8. The Chat Room Format was discussed and as a whole we feel that the formal meeting of TIGS should remain as is at this time. Chat Room in general is not being ruled out, down the road if anyone on the list wants to organize and set it up members from Troy are anxious to participate. We will continue to formally meet the 3rd Thursday of each month at a site determined at the prior meeting. The mailing list is out there open to discussion by the entire group, the minutes of each meeting will be posted and available for all to comment on, items for the agenda will be accepted from anyone offering such items and any member from out of the area will be welcomed if they are in the area and can attend. If any out of area members are going to be in Troy at a time when the meeting is not being held please post to the list and I am confident several Troy members will be more than happy to meet with you anyway.

9. Ed Connolly took a survey of members to determine which counties in Ireland their surnames came from. He was under the impression that most Burden Iron Workers were from Tipperary. The results seemed to support this idea. While not scientific, the survey showed that the far more people with surnames connected to South Troy were from Tipperary than any other single county - and, in fact, all other counties put together. There were fourteen (14) Ireland counties listed from the responses. The place of origin in the USA was broken down to one of three: A.) South Troy, B.) other Troy, and C.) other area - outside of Troy. Respondents indicated 11 times that their South Troy surname connection was from County Tipperary. The next closest was County Cavan, with 2. The other Counties that attendees had connections to were (from all areas in Troy and outside Troy): Limerick; Cork; Clare; Antrim; West Meath; Meath; Waterford; Offaly; Tyrone; Laoise; Donegal; Longford.. It is fair to say that most Burden Iron Workers would have lived in South Troy near the mill and the fact that so many meeting attendees from South Troy had origins in Tipperary, would suggest that the majority of Burden's Irish workers may have come from Tipperary, if not most of the Irish residents of South Troy.

10. Ed Connolly recommended the Book "Worker City, Company Town" (available through Amazon.com secondary sellers (very inexpensive)) to any members who wish to familiarize themselves with the Irish working at Burden Iron Works. This book was made into a PBS movie.

11. Ed then shared some information about Emly a small town in West Tipperary (near the border with Limerick) and the Emigrant Memorial there that contains many names of families that emigrated to Troy. Ed has done much research in Tipperary and Limerick and welcomes any inquiries. He has asked that anyone doing Tipperary research contact him and share findings.

The meeting then came to a close and the group split into smaller groups for even further conversation. Everyone was pleased with Mahrs, the room is pleasant, the meal was good and the service excellent. We agreed to meet there again next month, June 17th at 6:15. Please submit any agenda items in advance, any comments are appreciated and we look forward to input from all list members.

Has anyone on this list ever heard of the newspaper, The Green Island Review? It was published from Jan. 1879 to Sept. 1884 by Henry L. Gilbert. He then sold the paper to W.A. Cole and L. H. Weeks. They changed the name of the paper to the Albany County Herald and it continued for a time, but finally stopped publication. (This info comes from The Green Island Heritage and The Bicentennial Book published by that village in 1976, on page 79.) Troy Library never heard of it. Heatly Library cannot help, either.

According to the Newspaper Project Coordinator at the State Archives, there are only three original (paper) issues that they know about: February 18, 1881 (located at the Woman's Round Lake Improvement Library) December 2, 1881 (located at the Fort Edward Historical Association), and December 7, 1883 (located at the New York State Library). No microfilm exists.

Have yet to get to the State Library during the day, since I got this info. The other 2 possible sources have not yet responded. Gee, wouldn't it be great if someone has an issue stashed away somewhere? I will also try the Albany Co. list...

Thanks,
Donna

Donna,

Have you tried the Albany Times Union. Maybe the TU absorbed the paper or something like that. I believe the Albany TU has been around since the early 1800s or something like that and you could get lucky there. There may be a historical buff working at the TU. You never know.

I have transcribed and indexed the Irish born from three alien declaration films that were filed in Rensselaer County Court in Troy NY from 1859 to 1884. They cover not only Rensselaer county but many from the surrounding counties and MA and there are over 4,000 entries. You can access them at the Rensselaer County website at:

<http://www.connorsgenealogy.com/troy/>

On the homepage, at the top, under Genealogy, click on Naturalization/Citizenship. You will notice at the top of the Naturalization webpage, I have included a new search engine to make your search a bit easier.

I also have links to these records on my website (URL under my name), on the Troy webpage.

Subject: [TIGS] 1900 Troy census update

I have just started uploading the last ward of the 1900 Troy federal census which included 5,853 individuals, 764 dwellings and 1,362 individuals. This ward had a few pages that were very faint and hard to read so many ??...also in rechecking, the enumerator wrote over some of the surnames, so more ??...There are 20 pages to this ward so will probably take a couple of days to get them all formatted and on line....so far I have five pages uploaded.

People to thank for transcribing this ward: Gwen Beiermeister, Herb Phelps, Bob McConihe, Ron Mauer, Kay Brearton, Christine Durham and Jay Stevens.

The whole census will now be on line by wards. Next month, I will put all the wards together, alphabetize it and get it on line by both wards and alpha like I currently have the 1880 Troy census. I estimate, since there are 59,310 individuals (lines) to the complete census that it will take a couple of months to completely get it on line in alpha order.

You can access the census from links on the Rensselaer website at:

<http://www.rootsweb.com/~nyrenss2/Troy/>

Notice I have added a search engine to the website which I will have reindexed once I have all the pages on line. Using the search engine from this site, you will be able to access the whole 1900 census.

You can also access it from the URL below name, on the Troy section of my website.

This ward had a few pages that were very faint and hard to read so many ??...also in rechecking, the enumerator wrote over some of the surnames, so more ??...There are 20 pages to this ward so will probably take a couple of days to get them all formatted and on line....so far I have five pages uploaded.

People to thank for transcribing this ward: Gwen Beiermeister, Herb Phelps, Bob McConihe, Ron Mauer, Kay Brearton, Christine Durham and Jay Stevens.

The whole census will now be on line by wards. Next month, I will put all the wards together, alphabetize it and get it on line by both wards and alpha like I currently have the 1880 Troy census. I estimate, since there are 59,310 individuals (lines) to the complete census that it will take a couple of months to completely get it on line in alpha order.

You can access the census from links on the Rensselaer website at:

<http://www.rootsweb.com/~nyrenss2/Troy/>

Notice I have added a search engine to the website which I will have reindexed once I have all the pages on line. Using the search engine from this site, you will be able to access the whole 1900 census.

You can also access it from the URL below name, on the Troy section of my website.

You can now get a NYPL library card and get on line access to Ancestry.com and Otherdays.com (and many other databases). If you live in New York state you can get the card free, however for those outside the state it will cost $100 annual fee. Either way this is a good deal. You can find out more or apply for your card at:

<http://www.nypl.org/books/cards.html>

It is suppose to take two weeks to process.

I am sorry to inform you that the information I gave you a couple of days ago was not completely correct. Yes, if you live in NY you can get a library card from the NYPL and be able to access many of their databases from your home computer but Ancestry.com is not one of them.

A very nice person in NY went to the library and checked and was told this. The website is a bit confusing and I didn't check it out fully before passing on the information. Sorry for any problems I may have caused.

I have transcribed the GV for the Tipperary Civil Parish from the printed GV pages. The area includes the follow townlands: Ballinvee, Ballynilard, Barronstown, Boheravendrum, Bohercrow, Carron, Carrownreddy, Greenrath, Murgasty, Pegsborough, Rathneaveen, Roseborough, Sadleirswells, Spital-land, Springfield, Tipperary Hills, Town Lot and Tipperary Town. The information in the databases includes: occupiers/surname and first, townland, page number of GV, map reference number, location/street, immediate lessor and the description of tenement. You can find the databases by going to the URL below my name. On my homepage, at the top, under Ireland, click on County Tipperary. On the Tipperary page, you will find the link under 'Land Records'.

Subject: [TIGS] Mixed marriage

Ok - I'll come in from the garden and start something. I have Caulfield folks in Troy and Albany and Coyle in Albany. My concern/interest right now is Coyle.

Does anyone know how common it was to have a mixed religion marriage back in 1830? What I have learned thus far is that Patrick Coyle was born about 1801-1805 in County Longford. He married Jane Hughes about 1831. Jane was born about 1811 in County Tyrone. Jane is buried with her family in St. Agnes Roman Catholic Cemetery. Her tombstone has on it a memoriam to Patrick who isn't there. Patrick is buried at St. John's Lutheran Cemetery in Albany. Patrick completed his Declaration of Intention on November 2, 1832, so they arrived here after there first son was born in Ireland. Was a mixed marriage as unusual as I think? Or, am I wrong?

Thanks.

good, glad I am not alone.

I was researching a boxing match in April of 1860 when I found a Troy connection. My GGgrandfather Thomas Halloran of Albany was murdered in May of 1860 in a street argument over comments made about the John Heenan and Thomas Sayers prize fight of late April 1860 in England. This fight was apparently considered the first ever Heavyweight world championship of boxing. About the murder, an eerily detailed newspaper (Albany Argus) article documented the he said she said of the actual murder. But I was fascinated with the boxing match itself also. I did not at first realize it was about a local boxer. John Heenan was born in Troy in the 1830s. It was a bare knuckled fight and lasted 36 rounds until the crowd busted in a stopped it. Heenan was about 6 inches taller and 40 pounds heavier than his foe. It ended up going another 7 rounds and was called a draw, and both men got a belt. If you google "Heenan, Troy, boxing", you come up with some interesting facts also about ! probably 3 well known Troy and West Troy Mcboxers. Also if you are interested many articles pop up if you search Heenan in the NYTimes Database on heritagequest.

That old phrase comes to mind, when men were men.

NOw who is going to help me paint my shed? Frank? Wendy will be there serving lemonade!

Hi Ruth, Mixed marriages were not too common even in the early 1900s. My father's family practically disowned him because he was married to a R. Catholic in 1908! His family were Methodist Episcopalians-now United Methodists- and so -too bad-we did not know many of our paternal relatives. I'm just learning now about them. Rita
